

I Don't Believe in Love

by Lindsey Eck

I don't believe in love
I don't believe in trust I don't believe they make a steel that's never going to rust
I don't believe in love
I don't believe in joy I don't believe in planting trees the frost will just destroy
I don't believe in love
You can't convince me what they say is true
but I believe in me and you

You make my heart beat loud and fast you let my soul take wing but please don't say you love me
'cause it doesn't mean a thing

I don't believe in love
I don't believe in youth I don't believe those magazines are showing us the truth
I don't believe in love
I don't believe in tears I've got no use for scrapbooks full of faded souvenirs
I don't believe in love
I don't believe that gray gives way to blue
but I believe in me and you

I still believe in sunsets and walks along the sand
but please don't say you love me
Just smile and take my hand

I don't believe in love
The movies always lie and life's too full of lotteries where no one wins a prize
I don't believe in roses
I don't believe in thorns I don't believe in holding on to rings I've never worn
I don't believe in love
You can't convince me what they say is true
